

Couplings for common connections

S1E offers a range of low cost couplings for the connection of drainage pipes.

Made from EPDM rubber, our range of couplings meets the demands of common drainage pipe applications. The couplings allow pipes of the same material and diameter to be connected using a straight coupling and pipes of different materials or diameters to be connected using an adaptor coupling. The couplings and their specific applications can be identified easily thanks to dedicated labels and installation can be completed in minutes using only one tool to tighten the clamp bands to 6Nm.
